

A photograph of a classroom with students sitting at their desks, looking down at books or papers, suggesting a lecture or study session. The students are mostly young men, some wearing headscarves. The room has a large window in the background and a tiled floor.